UU Black History Art Competition

To celebrate Black History Month our Year 10 Art students had the option of entering the University of Ulster Creative Competition, whereby they had to create an original artwork, poetry or script on the theme of: "A celebration of inspirational black role models and their achievements". From the high calibre of entries across Northern Ireland two of our Year 10 students were recognised as Prize Winners for their exceptional Artwork entries. Congratulations goes to Aodhan Travers in 10F who was awarded a joint first prize, along with 2 other entries from different schools. The judging panel consisting of the UU Head of Art & Design School, as well as academics and students from BAME network, commented on the creativity, distinctive style and extremely powerful message of Aodhan's Portrait of Nina Simone. Aodhan will receive a £75 Amazon Voucher. Our next prize winner was Dillion Montgomery who was awarded the Judges Prize and will receive a £20 Amazon Voucher. Again the judges commented on the creativity and research that Dillon expressed towards his 'Inspirational Black Role Model' of Muhammad Ali. All Year 10 students who entered the competition will be awarded an Ulster University Scholar Pin. All entries will also be showcased by University of Ulster, within the next few weeks online.

Past Pupil Returns for Construction Programme

CBS Construction department were delighted accept our past pupil Kevin McElroy's generous offer to support our Post 16 construction programme. We welcomed Kevin back to the very room he himself sat as a pupil only this time he was the speaker, and a fantastic speaker he was. He captured staff and pupils from the onset of his talk and had their undivided attention from the minute he began his presentation. His career path to date coupled with his wealth of experience working on massive Construction projects across UK, Australia and Canada made for interesting and varied discussions. Kevin was a joy to have back at CBS and a fabulous ambassador for the Construction Industry. He was truly inspirational, we wish him well as he returns to his current Canadian project at the weekend.

U14 Soccer

Well done to our U14 Soccer team who booked themselves a place in the Quarter-finals of the School's Cup during the week. They overcame Castlederg High School, 3-2, in a tense encounter at Youth Sport. A Brandon Downey winner deep into extra-time fired the boys into the last eight with the other goals coming from Peter Colton and Mark Kennedy.
